

Dia Teens

Seeking creative teens with an open mind.

Dia Teens is a collective made up of fifteen young people based at Dia:Beacon who collaborate with each other to create original projects, engage with their local community, and travel to New York City arts spaces. Working closely with a practicing artist, teens make, experiment, question, and investigate contemporary art and explore questions related to art and the world.

This year-round program is FREE for all participants. Lunches / snacks, materials, and in-program transportation are provided for all sessions. No previous art classes or special skills required.

Express yourself. Let us know how you feel about the following statements, there is no right or wrong way to answer.

Why are you interested in Dia Teens? What would you like to learn? And what skills or ideas might you contribute?

Tell us about a time when you learned something unexpectedly. How did your perspective change? And why do you think it changed?

Tell us about a time when you worked on a creative project with friends or classmates. What did you enjoy most in working together? And what was most challenging?

Do you participate in other activities during the summer (clubs, sports, job, volunteering)? Are there things you would like to do in your free time that are not currently available to you?

Have you ever been to Dia:Beacon? (If not, that's okay! Just write "I haven't been to Dia yet.") If so, what was your experience like? Was anything interesting or surprising to you?

What question would you like to ask a current Dia Teens member?

Finish this sentence:

If I could do anything I wanted to in an art museum, I would...

Thank you!
